RE: San Joaquin Valley Draft PM2.5 Attainment Plan

Dear Mr. Sheikh and Mr. Corey,

I moved here from Miami, FL and 1 year into living in Fresno I'm now on 2 inhalers and have gone through 4 steroid therapies all to try and get my asthma under control. Still not controlled. I struggled to breathe daily and it's like I have a perpetual cold year-round; it absolutely sucks. When you live a stone's throw away from the beautiful sierras yet you only see the mountains 2-3 times/year because the majority of the time the city is covered in smog....it is obvious there is a severe air quality problem!

Sincerely,

Jannifer Matos,

RE: San Joaquin Valley Draft PM2.5 Attainment Plan

Dear Mr. Sheikh and Mr. Corey,

La mala calidad del aire en el Valle de San Joaquín es muy alta especialmente aquí en Fresno. Qué es de muy mala calidad y especialmente la contaminación en el ZIP code 93706 según la universidad de California es el más malo por todo el humo de los carros también por las lecherías por tantas vacas y Los Rancheros que lanzan polvo y tiran qué todo se junta y va al aire y los fertilizantes y químicas también se filtra en la tierra y van al agua subterránea. Yo por eso firma esta petición para terminar con la contaminación.

Sincerely,

RE: San Joaquin Valley Draft PM2.5 Attainment Plan

Dear Mr. Sheikh and Mr. Corey,

I have witnessed first-hand how air pollution here in the Valley takes a toll. We have had our fair share of trips to the ER for breathing steroids. I started hearing similar stories from other parents. It really is time for forward thinking, to come up with solutions to lessen the pollution here. I'm tired of hearing Drs. say "You just need to move out of the valley." That shouldn't be the only solution.

RE: San Joaquin Valley Draft PM2.5 Attainment Plan

Dear Mr. Sheikh and Mr. Corey,

I've personally been admitted due to poor air quality triggering a horrible asthma attack. I watched my (at the time) 11yr old carted away in an ambulance due to O2 levels being at 89% and since the local air board decided it was only a "yellow flag" day-her sports team had mandatory games from 1pm on. When we researched the actual AQI for that day, turns out it should have been a red flag day and that would have triggered a cancellation of all outdoor events for her team.

RE: San Joaquin Valley Draft PM2.5 Attainment Plan

Dear Mr. Sheikh and Mr. Corey,

It saddens me to no end how unhealthy our air quality is here. We continue to have the worst air quality in the nation. It's not fair that the entire state and even nation benefits from free travel on the 5 and 99 as well as the agriculture and oil industries of Bakersfield but our entire population suffers immensely from the pollution we must breathe as a result. As a child I recall looking up at a blue sky with white clouds. My children are growing up with grey air so thick you can't even see the mountains in the distance. I have too many friends whose children have developed asthma because of our air. We can barely even see stars in the night sky here. I work in a rehab hospital where we have developed an entire COPD program due to the staggering number of patients we see in the valley with this condition after a lifetime of breathing this air. Our children deserve to breathe clean air, whatever it takes.
